Moratorium: Hurricane Earl

Due to the impending approach of Earl by the National Weather Service, a binding moratorium is now in effect on new business for all commercial and personal lines coverages through American Service Insurance Company for the states of South Carolina and Virginia. This moratorium is in effect immediately and normal binding authority will resume after the watch and/or warnings are lifted.

This directive applies to all new business including additional lines of coverage and changes in deductibles or policy limits being considered for existing accounts, as well as reinstatement of lapsed or out-of-force policies. Every auto written with physical damage coverage within 72 hours after the warnings are lifted must be inspected to determine if there is existing damage. The inspection and any damage must be indicated in the application.

Please contact Anne Andreuccetti if you have any questions.
